From Rhea Silvia with her twins Romulus and Remus to Julius Caesar with Brutus and Cassius, passing through Tarquinius the Proud and then down to the delirious Nero and his waxen wife Poppea. An overwhelming ride in which senators, patricians and plebeians, gladiators, Antony and Cleopatra, Constantine, Claudius and his terrible wife Agrippina, Commodus, Caracalla, Marcus Aurelius, Tullus Hostilius and the glittering and cruel king of Albalonga will parade in a whirlwind. Amulius. From the foundation to the fall of the Ancient Roman Empire in 60 minutes of very comic theatre. If it is true that Rome was not built in a day, it is, however, true that in just one hour you will witness all the events that made a city the immortal Urbe Aeterna. Three actors will bring to life at very accelerated speed the more or less known story of the immortal Caput Mundi. Accompanied by an unusual tour guide, among testimonies from less than credible experts in the sector, football matches, choreographies and absurd stage accidents, you will realize that there is nothing more modern and current than ancient history!
